the dissemination of such a doctrine than might be found in industrial and manufacturing centers of population.

In connection with the foregoing, an editorial published in LA NUEVA PRENSA of February 13, 1931, has been very favorably commented upon. A translation of the closing paragraph of this editorial reads as follows:-

SEN 618.54417
"Public opinion demands aid for the unemployed, giving them something to do, but at the same time requires that punitive measures be taken against those who, under the cloak of economic difficulties, preach desecration and counsel attacks on property and persons. Costa Rica is for workingmen, but it is not a refuge for international highwaymen."

Respectfully yours,
